There's poison in my baby's food!

The seizure of stale and adulterated children's food supplements has cast a shadow over the quality of products flooding markets.

A case has been registered and a fine of Rs 1 lakh has been imposed on the godown owner.

There is no doubt that the sale of adulterated food supplements happened with the consent of the manufacturer.

You are not alone if you feel that you are being victimized by the food supplements you buy. Many parents have complained to the Food Safety Department about similar incidents.

Mass drive soon

The Food Safety Officer said a drive will be conducted soon to check food product suppliers.

There are certain food supplements that are being sold in the market.

The products have been selected and samples are being collected.

Painting a pretty picture of empowerment

We are happy we have overcome gender stereotypes and found success in this work. Now we visit the schools to understand the process and women are working in the area. We have a few months left and will work hard to make our presence felt.

We are happy with our success in the field of women's rights. We have a few months left and will work hard to make our presence felt.

The right route to success

According to Eldho Kuruvilla, a student of Vedatma College, a student should choose his career not according to their potential as identified by their parents, but according to their personality.

These are four tips on which the counselling sessions should be based on.

There are four tips on which the counselling sessions should be based on.

We are happy with our success in the field of women's rights. We have a few months left and will work hard to make our presence felt.

Painting a pretty picture of empowerment

We are happy we have overcome gender stereotypes and found success in this work. Now we visit the schools to understand the process and women are working in the area. We have a few months left and will work hard to make our presence felt.

We are happy with our success in the field of women's rights. We have a few months left and will work hard to make our presence felt.

The right route to success

According to Eldho Kuruvilla, a student of Vedatma College, a student should choose his career not according to their potential as identified by their parents, but according to their personality.

These are four tips on which the counselling sessions should be based on.

We are happy with our success in the field of women's rights. We have a few months left and will work hard to make our presence felt.